USER STORIES

1) As a frequent user who hates having to spend tons of time searching, I want the website to remember my information because I am too lazy to input that information every time. So, I want to be able to log in the web app and store my personal information about the genres that I am most interested in. And I want the website to recommend me with events that I enjoy. The website should provide me with a list of recommendations of events that are similar to the events that I like or I went to before.

2) I am a traveler and my favorite activity is going to a concert in each city I travel to and listening to local musicians if possible. I came across this website where it allows me to find such events with ease. After signing-up, I had a lot of customization options to narrow down my search. Since I am a tourist, I don't have any vehicles in the current city that I am in. The application allowed me to find the events that are closest to my hotel.

3) As a very busy person, I don't like wasting time searching the internet for upcoming shows near me. I want to be able to log in to a website and receive all the information such as the date, the location, and the artists performing of all the upcoming events with just a few clicks. This website allowed me to do all this without having to look through all the upcoming ones. It was very easy to navigate since there weren't any features or ads that distracts the user from their goal. After logging in, all I did was to filter my search based on my needs and then I was shown a list of all the upcoming shows based on my preferences.

4) I'm a tech-savvy person, so I don't like the process of having to go through multiple websites in order to purchase tickets. Therefore, I want a website that not only lets me view the next upcoming events, but also lets me buy the tickets directly on the website without leading me to another webpage.

5) I'm a person that likes a lot of different genres. That's why, I can't really decide on a few select favorite genres. But I have a few artists I really enjoy listening to currently. Right now, I want to expand my repertoire. That's why I want a website where I can put in artists I like and get events that are not just from those artists, but concerts by similar artists.
